To Whom It May Concern,

This letter is in support of Michael Landgraf's efforts to generate an effective educational tool to support and promote the learning process for learning disabled students. Mr. Landgraf has graciously volunteered his time, knowledge, and technical equipment to the learning disabled students at Danube Ave. Elementary School for the past four years. I have been teaching learning disabled children that span the ages of 5 to 12 for the past eleven years. His endeavor to make learning more meaningful and lasting for special education students has been an inspiration in my work.

Mr. Landgraf introduced "Light and Sound Technology" to me in 1991. His interest is in the possibilities of enhancing the learning process for the students of Danube Ave. Elem. School. I am always looking for new methods and techniques to enhance learning for the students I teach. Mr. Landgraf described the light and sound machine and a rationale for why he thought it would enhance learning. I agreed to try it, with the permission of parents.

The technology has evolved in various ways during the past four years. As changes occurred, Mr. Landgraf has updated my information base as well as the equipment. I have no doubts about the effectiveness of light and/or sound technology as an educational tool to enhance learning. Students with attention deficit disorder are able to complete assignments without losing focus. Hyperactive students are able to stay on task for longer periods and focus their concentration on a given skill. These students were bound by their disability in the past, and their self-esteem struggled. Some students are now eager to learn as they are beginning to recognize their capabilities. Students have also learned to reduce their stress or anxieties resulting in a mind set more conducive to learning. Reducing stress or practicing relaxation as a skill has also been a vehicle to help students transcend problems at home that cause road blocks to learning.

I have adopted Light and Sound technology as a welcome tool to my profession and personal life. Reduction of stress in my life has helped me to be a healthier person and a better teacher. I strongly recommend educators to seek the knowledge, guidance and technical support of Mr. Landgraf to explore Sound and Light Technology and its potential to enhance the learning process for learning disabled students.
